TOGETHER

December 2022/January 2023

It is hard to be unaffected by Advent and Christmas. It is a season of heightened and often contradictory emotions. Some of us can't get enough of it and some of us want it to go away. But even the latter would miss the perverse pleasure they get from grumbling about Christmas if it disappeared. It is even more complicated for church people. We have a whole lot more to complain about – how there is less and less of Christ and more and more of mass marketing every year.

This year I was stopped in my own well-worn track of complaining thoughts by one interesting fact. The celebration of Christmas as a church festival began shortly after Constantine the Great embraced Christianity in 313. Not many years later the Archbishop of Constantinople found it necessary to warn against the excess of feasting and the neglect of religious observance on the holy day. The conflicting views about how we should observe Christmas go right back to its beginnings. In fact this is probably the oldest Christmas tradition of all!

Anyway, Protestant denominations like our own are the worst offenders, repeatedly cancelling Christmas over the centuries. Christmas, however, refused to die. So let us, as Christians, celebrate the season in a spirit of humility and simply be grateful for whatever gifts Christmas may bring this year, be they spiritual or material.

The Joy You Give By John Greenleaf Whittier

Somehow not only for Christmas
But all the long year through
The joy that you give to others
Is the joy that comes back to you
And the more you spend in blessing
The poor and lonely and sad
The more of your heart's possessing Returns to you glad.

John Greenleaf Whittier was the nineteenth century American hymn writer and poet who wrote the hymn, 'Dear Lord and Father of Mankind'. He was known as 'the Quaker poet' and was renowned (and reviled) for his ardent anti-slavery campaign.

About People

The Pastoral Care Team hope you are all enjoying the warmer weather and the sunshine which, we think, makes us all feel brighter. We especially think of those who are unwell and those who are currently in hospital. We wish both Pamela Smith and Dallas Revans speedy recoveries.

We congratulate those having birthdays in December and also those celebrating anniversaries, especially Rachel and Peter Rush, now sixty years married! Enjoy all your special occasions!

We send you our best wishes for a happy and peaceful Christmas in this beautiful part of the world in which we are so lucky to live. Christmas is a great time to enjoy our special memories of the happy Christmases we have shared with family and friends over the years - for most of us... many of them!

For those of us lucky to have family and friends visiting us over the Christmas period – enjoy them. If you know of someone who possibly won't have visitors, visit them in the Christmas spirit.

Christmas blessings to you all from, the Pastoral Care Team, Jennie, Lyn, Erice, Merrill, Carole, Mary, Diane and Diana (for Waikanae)

Christmas Presents for Women's Refuge

Again this year we are hoping Kapiti Uniting members will support the Women's Refuge by donating Christmas presents for the families they assist.

Although presents for children are welcome the Refuge says they would be especially grateful for presents for teenagers and mothers.

You can label each gift for a mother, teenager, boy or girl, as in the past, but it's fine to just leave the gift unwrapped and put it under the Christmas Tree, as the Women's Refuge workers will need to see which gift is suitable for each mother or young person.

Women's Refuge is always very grateful for the presents we donate.

Please put the gifts under the Christmas Tree in the Raumati Church by Sunday 11 December.

Carol Singing Afternoon Tea

*Sunday 11 December, 2 pm - 3.30 pm
Raumati Hall*

The Minister and the Pastoral Care Group are hosting an afternoon of carol singing and refreshments.

We hope the time will suit those of you who are unable to attend Christmas services on a Sunday morning.

Transport will be arranged for those who need it. This is not a members-only event, feel free to bring friends, neighbours, family.

Please contact Kate in the office if you require transport.

Waikanae Church

On Tuesday, 15 November, it was Waikanae's turn to host the Methodist Women's Fellowship (MWF) Wellington District meeting. We hosted two visitors from Waiwhetu Uniting Church, Lower Hutt and three from Wesley Wellington Parish, Taranaki Street and welcomed three ladies from our own Raumati Church, as well as Rev Anna Gilkison.

After we introduced ourselves, Marie Smith shared a little about the history of Waikanae Church, and led a devotion about the wonder and uniqueness of seashells. She then treated us to some stories and photos of past presidents and other executives who had gathered at the NZMWF national conference she recently attended in Auckland. We also learned about the new MWF project for 2023. In conjunction with Christian World Service, we are supporting the Special Project for Tonga, in which Tongan women are helped to rebuild and improve their livelihoods after their recent volcanic eruption, tsunami, and COVID-19. In village-based groups, the women work together to improve family livelihoods and the well-being of their communities. There will be more information on this next year.

The ladies then all ate lunch together amid a warm atmosphere of Christian fellowship, and didn't leave until 1.30pm! Special thanks to Marie and Cynthia Brooks for organising the hospitality.

In other news, Waikanae has been a little below average in attendance numbers this last month, mainly because people are very busy travelling to and fro all over the country, and some of our folks have been sick. During the last month, we were so very pleased to host quite a few Raumati folks as visitors and service leaders this month, including Syd and Joy Mephram, Robin and Heather List, Carole Rudings, Maureen Calhaem and Kate Foley. In the immortal words of Bruce Forsythe, "Didn't they do well!" They also managed to make a few inroads into our biscuit supplies!

We thank God for Desmond Corrigan, who has now presented both of his draft reports—one on health and safety and the other on communications—to the Waikanae Committee. Both of these reports have uncovered many issues and situations that Waikanae—and indeed the parish—will need to consider. These are discussions that are fairly wide-ranging and really can't be rushed, so the committee members are taking some time to work through Desmond's findings. Kate Foley, as a 'representative' from Raumati, has also had preliminary discussions with Desmond, with a view to working out ideas and procedures for the parish for the future.

Christmas Day Service

John and Diana Roberts will lead Christmas Day worship at Waikanae Church at the earlier start time of 9.00am. We will celebrate with a family-friendly service on the theme of 'Opening Doors'. We usually get quite a few holiday visitors for the Christmas Day service with the church well-filled. We are looking forward to this special time.

New Year's Day Worship

Again, John and Diana will lead worship at Waikanae on New Year's Day, beginning at the earlier time of 9.00am, in the informal setting of the church lounge. It will be in three parts, beginning with a New Year focus, followed by a renewing of our covenant relationship with God, and ending with a celebration of Holy Communion. We will conclude the gathering with morning tea.

In closing, we at Waikanae pray for safe travels, good health, and blessed times of refreshing for all of you in the parish over this coming Christmas season.

Market Day

I would like to thank everyone who had a part in making the Market Day a success. From the first tentative meeting, through all the planning, the advertising and organising, it proved yet again what we can do if we all pull together.

After a very wet start, the weather improved and the interaction with the community was obvious and folks were enjoying walking around, talking to friendly, welcoming people in a safe and encouraging environment.

I have heard many positive comments about the atmosphere and I saw lots of happy little faces, some looking very cute, with painted faces, accompanied by adults who were genuinely grateful that they had found something the children wanted, which they did not have to pay for.

Clearly, many people put a lot of time and effort into their stalls and I cannot list them all here. However, special thanks must go to Ralph for once again being willing to go the extra mile, to Kate for the advertising coverage and keeping it all together in the background.

To first-time stall holder Dianne, with a great variety of plants, to Joy and her art, to Lynn and her craft, to Thrifty volunteers, to Nancy with the raffles, John and the garage sale, Nina who made wraps, to the lovely ladies who provided morning tea. From the cake stall goes a special mention to Marcia Collins who dropped off a large fruit cake, fruit loaves, and biscuits, before she flew to Auckland, to Hazel Ollerenshaw who made some delicious marmalade and others who made jam and pickles and to everyone who did some baking, thank you for making the stall the success that it was. To the BBQ stars who kept a lot of people fed and to Anna who seized the opportunity to mix and mingle, both were very much appreciated.

Community Garden

Last Saturday, when finishing for the day at Thrifty Place, Maureen and I had a very pleasant conversation with four people who were heading to the Community Garden.

They explained that they did not need any produce, but they often walked that way, did a bit of weeding, noted that the strawberries would have to be covered and said they would look for some netting; they live in an apartment with no garden and were very grateful for the opportunity to get their hands into the soil and to be able to watch the plants progress.

It is a pleasant area to visit: maybe the Council would give us some benches to sit on. I know there is a park across the road, but it is busy with sport being played and dog walkers and I am not aware of places to sit under trees. We have a lovely spot and the more that the community feel welcome on a church property, the better in my opinion. Parents sometimes bring their children to learn about plants. It takes so little effort to bring a sense of peace and for others to be able to appreciate the work that goes into this endeavour. Is that not what we are all about?

To those who were concerned that Peter rabbit may have left the property, fear not. I am reliably informed he has been seen nibbling the buttercups.

*I used to be a "Clean-up Gardener". Gardening meant weeding.
The garden was a potential weed bed to be controlled.
Now I am learning the pleasure of planting, tending, feeding the soil.
It's about growing. Sandra Winton*

Cribs in Kapiti

About 30 nativity cribs will be on display at Our Lady of Kapiti church, Paraparaumu.

The cribs will be on display from 16 to 23 December between 7.30pm and 10.30pm. Entry is by a can of food or a gold coin donation.

Members of the arts and crafts group that meets weekly in the Raumati church's basement room had some unexpected visitors at their 8 November gathering.

NZ company Attitude Pictures - a world-leading producer of documentaries about people living with disabilities - is creating a new series for TVNZ called 'Down for Love', that features group member Neville Pugh.

Neville said that one of the favourite things he does each week is the craft group, so the film company seized the opportunity to record him enjoying his time exploring new crafts and being with friends. The episode will feature next year.

New to the Parish

Welcome to Jack Gardner, our new general hand at the Raumati Church. You may see Jack in the weekends, sweeping the driveway and refilling the kitchen/toilet supplies.

For many years, Dorothy Woods has spent countless hours undertaking these tasks. Thank you Dorothy for all your service to the Parish. It has been very much appreciated by those of us at the Raumati Church.

 No money sense. Unemployable.
 Friends, yes. But the wrong sort –

 The bottom rung.

His end?
 I think we'll make it
 Public, prolonged, painful.

News from the Playgroups

When you read this, the school year will be almost over. The Playgroups at both Raumati and Waikanae will have their final sessions for the year in the week beginning 12 December.

Term 4 has been a really satisfactory time for both the Monday group at Raumati and the Friday group at Waikanae.

Term 4 started with our newly appointed Co-ordinator Sasha White at the helm. We are so fortunate to have a person of Sasha's experience and talent involved in this significant community outreach of the Parish. Not only does she have experience in early childhood settings, she is also a gifted dance tutor in a local dance school. Sasha has also over the years been involved in Mainly Music groups here on the Coast and is now adapting all these skills in the programme she is running on behalf of the Kapiti Uniting Parish.

Sasha White

The Playgroup Support Team includes Marie Smith, Louise Faulke, Maureen Calhaem and Joy Mephram. It has been a real pleasure to work together prayerfully to continue the many years of encouraging parents and those who care for pre-schoolers, and both Sasha and the support group feel that we share aspirations for the adults and children we meet with each week.

The Monday group at Raumati meets in the church hall at 9.30 am-11.30 am each week and the Waikanae group meets at the same time each Friday in the Waikanae church hall. We would appreciate some help at both setting up and clearing up at each setting. At present Marie and Don Smith continue to volunteer every Friday at Waikanae and Maureen Calhaem is at Raumati every Monday. If you are even slightly interested to join the volunteer group feel free to come in for a cup of tea (or coffee) at any of the sessions. If you would just like to pop in to see what actually happens you are most welcome.

The Playgroups do not function outside of the Church programme, They are very much part of it. Both Sasha and the Support team value your continuing prayerful support and interest.

On behalf of the Playgroup Support Team, Joy Mephram

"... and the life was the light of all people" John 1:9

About the Theme

At Christmas we listen to the life-changing story that shows God's great gift of love to us all. Through Advent we can listen and watch as the story unfolds, rediscovering the love that is at the heart of the universe. It is this love that inspires us to live in hope, doing what we can to make our world a place where all people can live in dignity and peace.

Facing the Climate Crisis in Hope

The Christmas Appeal begins with the climate challenge that faces the whole world. Whether or not one uses the language of climate emergency, daily life has become harsher for many people and communities unable to adapt to successive droughts or rising waters. The poorest people and countries have contributed the least to the rising temperatures but they are the ones who are carrying the largest cost.

More than half of the world's population – over 3.3 billion are "highly vulnerable" to the impacts of climate change according to the most recent IPCC report. Global unity and action is critical to address the use of fossil fuels and other factors contributing to climate change.

At the same time people on the frontline of climate change need assistance with water, food, shelter and more, to replace what they have already lost. It is not fair that the communities that have lost their land to water or drought, through no fault of their own, should have to carry the cost of relocation.

Climate change is contributing to the loss of life and livelihoods. It is also a driver of conflict. Supporting families and communities to adapt to our changed environment in ways that respect and honour their dignity is critical as global temperatures continue to rise.

Those most affected are too busy to give into despair, they must find hope.

The biggest challenge is not what is happening, but how we respond to the mounting evidence of change. Our partners have integrated climate change into the work they do in communities just as they are doing in response to the pandemic. Donations to the Christmas Appeal will go to people living on the frontlines of climate change.

It is for this reason we begin Advent by finding hope in the work of the Pacific Conference of Churches (PCC). In many ways they have set sail ahead of us, showing us what needs to be done by accompanying people whose homes and livelihoods are disappearing under water. At the same time PCC invites us to think theologically, to Reweave the Ecological Mats. In October General Secretary Rev. James Bhagwan and Programmes Manager Frances Namoumou spoke about this work.

On the second Sunday, which has Peace as its theme, we focus on the Department of Service to Palestinian Refugees, navigating tense and challenging conflicts to share water and life. On the third Sunday, we find Joy with small farmers in Nicaragua who are celebrating a better water supply and new ways to grow food. On the fourth Sunday, we share with families devastated by the floods that covered one third of Pakistan in water. And on Christmas Day, we read the story of one boy and his grandmother in the dry southwest of Uganda who share a simple prayer for water.

Finding Life and Light

In the lead up to Christmas there is much to think about and much to be done. It is easy to focus on the next event in the calendar, the food we need to prepare or the gifts we must buy. Soon we will be wrapped up in the Advent hymns and carols and the ancient Christmas story.

But listen carefully to the readings for Advent. It is in the Bible readings that we confront the hard stuff. What does it mean to 'Prepare the Way of the Lord' when the planet is burning and violence impacts so many people?

John 1:4b "... and the life was the light of all people."

In the opening verses of John's Gospel, we are confronted with the creative power of God, the giver of life. Verse John 1:4b shows us the way. As people of faith, we have a responsibility to live for hope in God's world. By giving gifts of love, we can share that hope. In our prayers we can show our concern for the whole of creation. By working together, we can create more momentum for change, taking action so more people have water, food and justice.

The Climate Crisis

This year's Christmas Appeal highlights the life-changing, life-giving work of five of our partners sharing hope on the frontline of climate change. They are part of local communities, taking practical steps so people have safe water and can better protect themselves when disaster strikes.

We are thankful for your gifts to these partners over many years. You have shared resources so they can improve people's livelihoods and find ways to protect themselves from harm and have a say in matters that affect them. Thanks to their community building work, our partners have developed local strategies to keep people strong even when water may be lapping around their homes. In the words of the Pacific Climate Warriors, "We are not drowning, we are fighting".

Your donations will give them the resources they need now to make sure families have water and food, displaced people have shelter, children can attend school and people can provide the psychosocial support they need for their own well-being.

Listening to the voices of those who have survived violence, disaster and hardship, we can find the energy we need to stand alongside people who need food, water and justice. When we work together in ways that give life, we share in God's love for the world. This is our Christmas story.

Towards Water Justice and a Sustainable Future

The world has reached the halfway mark on the Agenda for Sustainable Development 2030 with its 17 goals and 169 targets. This Christmas we focus on two of these goals:

In numbers

- 1 in 4 people need access to safe drinking water.
- 1 in 3 people need basic handwashing facilities in their homes.
- 3.6 billion people need safe sanitation.
- The number of weather-related disasters – floods, droughts, storms and extreme temperatures – has increased by a factor of five over the past 50 years
- Since 2000, flood-related disasters have increased by 134% and the number and duration of droughts have increased by 29%.
